

ABSTRACT

A method for plant regeneration in cotton via developmentally synchronized somatic embryogenesis is disclosed. The invention is simple, fast, reproducible and convenient for applications in plant genetic engineering and results in the achievement
5 of synchronised somatic embryogenesis by a step of inositol starvation.